

Trotsky: Wall Street Thug

Part II. Boomerangs always come back!

"I just tremble for my country, when I think that God is just."
Thomas Jefferson

Modern America could not sense and understand when Trotsky's boomerang returned to the senders. A huge part of the population still manages to believe that they live in the country of the triumph of freedom and the bulwark of guaranteeing human rights. The spiritual combination of religion and freedom merged to create an ideal exceptional nation.

The openness of American culture and its democratic principles created a model for imitation by other countries and a safe haven for millions. At the same time, the conviction that American principles are universal introduced a complex element into the international system. If governments practice them less than US standards require, they are not fully recognized as legitimate, and intervention and war unleashed by the US is the price of global leadership.

The permanent revolution proclaimed by Trotsky had as its goal not the liberation of the peoples of the world, but the destruction of sovereign states and their borders in the interests of global capital. The idea proved to be tenacious and now the flame of color revolutions, inspired, financed and instructed by the United States, has plundered virtually all post-Soviet states, destroyed several states in the Middle East, and is constantly raging in Ukraine.

Shock and Awe as Trotsky's Legacy

The specter of Trotsky rose in the United States, his ideas of cannibalistic devastation and redrawing the world, the transformation of all unprotected countries into a desert populated by shocked slaves were useful to neo-conservatives. Shock and awe give rise to fear, a sense of danger and catastrophe, incomprehensible to the bulk of people. If Trotsky managed to destroy Russia in 10 years, the US has been engaged in the continuation of his case for three decades. Of course, the first thing after the collapse of the Soviet Union was shock therapy arranged against the Russians. Human losses in Russia alone amounted to 13 million people died between 1992 and 2007. Millions of children and adults became homeless beggars, many drug addicts. Prostitution flourished. The country has 1.3 million street prostitutes, some 100,000 in Moscow alone. A huge number perhaps up to 10 million "live goods" were shipped abroad, primarily to Western Europe.

Calling the collapse of the USSR a great geopolitical tragedy, Vladimir Putin did not exaggerate. The scale of the disaster can be understood by comparing the number of beggars: In 1989, in the Second World (including the European part of the USSR), there were 14 million people living below the poverty line. In 1996, there were 168 million.

The new Constitution of the Russian Federation was written under dictation of American experts and became the legislative base for a new even larger plunder than in Trotsky's time. Invited by the new Russian government. Western, primarily American, economists developed a plan for reforming the country's economy, and then, as advisors to the president and the government, ensured its implementation with the support and pressure of the IMF and World Bank.

Trotsky's dream of breaking Russia into four parts still lives in the heads of American neo-conservatives. In the 1990s, one of the main objectives of the "Dulles Plan" for the destruction and colonization of Russia was achieved. The US victory in the cold war was the result of a purposeful, planned and multilateral strategy of the USA aimed at crushing the Soviet Union. US President George H. W. Bush, after the collapse of the Union, said that the United States spent five trillion dollars on the elimination of the Soviet Union.

Jacob Heilbrun in the magazine "New Republic" wrote that the best course for the US is to encourage further disintegration of Russia in every possible way. This disintegration is extremely beneficial for the United States. will have more effective leverage over dealing with individual states within the former USSR, since the US could set them against each other. Also, a situation where the great power of Russia would not exist would immeasurably help the maintenance of America's dominance in the international arena. The United States has already appropriated to itself the former Eastern European part of the Russian empire by expanding NATO.

But the boomerang of Trotsky in this case hits again. Americans have not yet realized that the loss of trust of Russians to the West is their greatest and irreplaceable loss! Le Carré called the insult of the Russian bear by the West a fatal mistake. As a result, Trotsky's ghost once again failed. America's new world order is officially dead. For about 25 years since the end of the Cold War, one of the dominant themes of American politics was the attempt to globalize the liberal international order that initially prevailed in the West after World War II. There is not the slightest doubt that in a world where American values will dominate, there is no place for Russian or Chinese values, and of course, for Islamic values. And the Russians, and the Chinese, and the Muslims realized this clearly.

The "soft power" of the United States has been lost, together with the charm of freedom and prosperity that attracted millions of hearts all over the world. Moreover, the policy of demonizing Putin ended in complete failure as his popularity remains high not only in Russia but across the non-western world.

The Ghost of Trotsky Roams the USA

The maturation of the very revolutionary situation in which Trotsky and Lenin played in October 1917 is quite palpable in the United States. Legitimacy elected only 10 months ago, President Trump from the first days was subjected to severe corrosion and his every step is not supported by the establishment in either party. The population deceived by beautiful promises increasingly doubt the President's actions are resulting in the outcome they expected. "The tops are not able, and the lower classes do not want" - as Lenin described pre-revolutionary Russia. Now the boomerang is back.

The enslavement of the country to the interests of bankers and corporations and their subservient politicians was most clearly manifested in the war in Iraq. Thousands of American young men who believed that they were going to fight against the tyranny of the eastern despot Hussein faced a real hell of massacre of civilians, but many failed to think how to live after what they did in a foreign country. Baghdad, Al-Fallujah, Al-Najaf, Al-Mussol and all the cities of Iraq will forever remain beacons that illuminate the road to the future, symbols of courage and fortitude against the most aggressive and dirty militaristic machine ever known to mankind throughout its entire stories. They will remain a lesson for peoples who are fighting for democracy and freedom against the slavery of the Yankees - these enemies of life.

The sons of Mesopotamia, the cradle of civilization, a country of free people, now live in the conditions of the most real Holocaust. The destruction of the memory of the nation by plundering national museums, art galleries and destroying libraries - Trotsky did this in Russia, America does it in Iraq, Syria, Libya, Ukraine. The National Museum of Iraq, the site of excavations of Babylon, a biblical city with a five-thousand-year history looted by American thieves.

In Ukraine, in the early days of the seizure of power by the Poroshenko junta, the new Prime Minister of Ukraine Arseniy Yatsenyuk organized the export of a unique collection of gold of the Scythians and the country's gold reserve to the United States. The value of the collection cannot be estimated simply in the value of its gold, these are ancient artifacts, the collection is irreplaceable.

Trotsky and the First Russian Sexual Revolution

The sexual revolution that occurred in the United States in the 1960s was not the very first revolution of its kind in history. The Russians made the first brave steps under the ideological inspiration of Trotsky in the 1920s. Americans are still little familiar with the shocking history of Trotsky's fascination with Freud's ideas. Deciding that the Oedipus complex would be harmful for the revolution, he allowed to begin in Russia the fight against the complex in children from an early age. For this purpose, the Children's House-Laboratory "International Solidarity" was created, where children from the age of two were brought up in the conditions of experiments with child sexuality. The children of the Communist "elite", whose parents were engaged in the revolutionary destruction of Russia, were under the supervision of psychoanalysts, whose main goal was to study children's sexuality and methods of liberation from prohibitions and complexes. On the basis of observations and experiments, reports were made at international conferences. This institution existed from August 1921 to August 1925, then was liquidated due to the growing discontent with scandalous rumors about what was happening there.

But in our present modern liberal society, early sexual education of children has taken a wide scale, all those who are trying to protest against the corruption of children and adolescents in educational institutions, are condemned for anti-liberal views and even are subject to prosecution. Trotsky's ghost could have enjoyed the circus for catching pedophile criminals, there are so many of them in the enlightened capitalistic world and the tool of domesticating politicians and rich people is so convenient that it is hardly possible to expect any really effective measures in the near future to return Lolita and her sisters and the young boys to a normal life.

Suicidal Freedom

Sex, drugs and rock and roll - the youth of America was plunged into a powerful attack of corruption under the slogans of the struggle for freedom. Freedom was given as a rope for hanging in batches - if you want some more freedom - get it! All that was forbidden to the generation of the fathers, became free. Since the 1960s, ideologists of freedom have glorified it from the university stands, have been seduced from the covers of magazines and newspapers, have stupefied the consciousness and remnants of conscience with cocaine, heroin, LSD and marijuana. If we consider that the current young generation of politicians was born in the 80s and observing their intellectual level, you come to the conclusion that their parents were in that wave of permissiveness not the last participants.

A comrade-in-arms, and later a victim of Trotsky, Vladimir Lenin called cinema the most important of the arts for the Soviet state. In the US, Hollywood accepted this idea and turned its empire into a powerful brainwashing tool. If you look at the film production of the main film companies, the main topics - brave American guys are fighting evil on a planetary scale, our freedoms are so great that anyone who gets in our way will be destroyed. And the reward to the heroes is to choose what is more: same-sex love, gender reassignment, freely buy marijuana, freely enjoy porn. Trotsky sits on the couch and grins!

The unfolding scandal with Harvey Weinstein is seen by few as a just retribution for sins, sex between an employer and an attractive employee is just business, nothing personal! A depraved person is easy to control, and the goods for corruption are so sweet that any businessman cannot resist a profitable business! Moral consciousness, etched by the concerted efforts of the media, Hollywood, an example of absolutely immoral politicians and financial tyrants, turns the population into a helpless and disunited mass that is unable to resist the repression of the system. Consider the degree of apolitically of American youth revealed in the survey about the Korean hydrogen bomb. Young people willingly congratulated North Korea on this achievement!

Trotsky and the New World Order

Leiba Bronstein (Trotsky) could rejoice at the success of his ideas in America, whose interests he so zealously served. Freedom is gained by global corporations and banks, the world without borders is convenient for uncontrolled robbery of defenseless peoples. The elites of these peoples easily part with sovereign interests, and if they suddenly wake up - there is the stick of NATO or "moderate terrorists". Protest movements are caricatured; what emotions can wake up a crowd with vagina hats instead of heads? Teenagers in the darkness of the cinemas, or basement rooms in front of computer screens, are hardened by another dose of violence on the screen and are corrupted by sex lessons right at school. Fear is the dominant emotion, as it should be to the slaves. The fear of losing their jobs and being on the streets, the fear of failing to please their superiors and losing a career, the fear of hordes of terrorists who every day massively kill and soon reach each of us, the fear that the Russians will one day come and destroy our beautiful life, or Muslims pour in here in a black crowd in their hijabs and blow us all up. False flag attacks engineered shock and awe - all on schedule!

Revolutions around the world are planned at the state level and are a favorite tool for plunging peoples and countries into chaos, from which American corporations extract fat profits. If the country needs to carry out economic reforms, the World Bank experts go there and pursue the same policy that Trotsky carried out in Russia under the control of the bankers working through Swedes. The capitalism of catastrophes is the invention of Trotsky, perfected by Friedman and his disciples. It is difficult now to calculate what and who had robbed Russia in the 90's, but the victory was Pirrova. The biggest geopolitical failure of the United States and Europe, is the loss of a boundless credit of trust in hundreds of millions of people, especially in Russia where a naïve population watched their dreams die in the looting arranged by American advisors.

Trotsky and the Media

Being a very gifted publicist, in the early days of revolutionary activity Trotsky realized the great power of the printed word. It was he who created the newspaper

Pravda in 1908 in Lviv, and then continued the publication in Vienna. The newspaper became the foundation for the victory of Bolshevism and all the years of the existence of the USSR was the main newspaper of the country. The American media are currently the most powerful tool for managing the mass consciousness. Studies of methods of managing human behavior, actively conducted since the 50s, provide effective weapons for influencing the mindset of the masses and the self-awareness of the American nation. The degradation of journalism through bribery and fear has turned an entire army of creative Americans into conformists and corrupt servants of corporations and politicians. As a result, the nation has lost critical thinking and the ability to resist. The boomerang of Trotsky became deadly to its creators.

What can Save America?

1. Complete rejection of the political philosophy of neo-conservatism and a national dialogue on "Who are we, Americans in the modern world?" To begin the formation of a realistic national development strategy in the 21st century
2. Revival of the classical school of diplomacy
3. Revival of real journalism
4. The revival of the education system, educating citizens and creative personalities, rather than debility consumers and credit slaves
5. Creation of a system of strict control over the agrarian sector and the food industry for the return of healthy and safe food for life.

Is it possible to Bury Trotsky's Ghost Forever?

I think, yes, it is possible, provided a real portrait of this demon emerges. In Russia, the beginning of this process is laid, there have already appeared several serious works on the role of Trotsky in the destruction of Russia. Moreover, with the disclosure of the true role of Trotsky in the October Revolution and the Civil War, in the red terror, the plundering of the country, the destruction of millions of civilians a more accurate portrait can be drawn. Stalin was portrayed through years of lies and withholding the truth. Stalin was no saint but certainly not the tyrant in the portrait Trotsky and his followers would have us believe. For all his faults, Stalin was a defender of Russia, not a bloodthirsty executioner. Instead he was a leader who managed to defeat the conspiracy of agents of the global financial mafia, there is no villain who intentionally destroyed the sprouts of freedom by repressions, but there is a clever strategist who managed to organize the people to exploit industrialization and win in the most terrible war of the twentieth century against fascism. Perhaps in America the change of portraits through the victory of truth will help to understand the origins of the Deep State and realize what leaders it needs and what ideals need a revival.

Trotsky Farewell!

Trotsky's story clearly illustrates the strategy of those trying to shape the world order for their own interests. Bankers and global corporations in any meaningful conflict support both sides, usually known to us as the right and the left, in order to be at any outcome with the winner. Ultimately, this strategy leads to ongoing control of governments and global processes.

Likewise, this strategy has led to the growth of various movements around the world, with Trump in the United States marking the beginning of a transition from the neo-conservative ideology that was the main reason for American intervention and many troubles worldwide. Similar reactions against globalism began earlier in Europe as economic and social crisis forced politicians to reconsider sovereignty. The furious attacks by mainstream media on Trump belie the tried and true strategy of backing all contenders as both political parties in the US are splintered and show cracks in old coalitions. Who knows where this will end for the West but that we are now in a transition cannot be denied.

On the one hand, the antifa movement uses the values of liberal democracy, such as free trade, open borders, freedom of information, increasingly promoting values of LGBT people under these attractive slogans, introducing them into a powerful entertainment industry and using the generous support of international bankers. Trotsky in this movement should simply be declared a martyr for the idea! Exporting democracy most easily occurs through playing on the basic instinct.

Today both wings of the American eagle are trying to continue the work of Trotsky: neo-conservatives insist on the right of an "exceptional nation" to carry the values of democracy to the people of the world, whatever it costs the people themselves. Democrats sow throughout the world values for which in all sacred books are thrown to the Hyenna fire. Both ideals are rooted in totalitarian belief systems unable to tolerate dissent.

The outcome of the game in Trotsky's boomerang is unclear, just as Trump himself is unclear, who promised a transition from 100 years of service to Trotskyism to the revival of sovereign democracy in the US. If you look at Europe, there the parade of sovereignty has already begun, and to me, surviving the collapse of the USSR, it painfully resembles the past. Russia, the first to survive Trotskyism in its tragic history, the first which renounced its heritage. And there are serious reasons to ponder why the Russians are increasingly talking about the end of the "new world order" and are heading the movement towards genuine freedom.

Galima Galiullina, Ph. D.
Washington, USA